Rex Nettleford Arts Conference

CALL FOR PROPOSALS

Arts and Culture for the 21st Century:

Millennial Dis-Engagement – Engagement - Re-Engagement

The theme for this year's conference comes against the background of the belief that the way forward for national, social and economic independence is through the arts and culture. Under the theme the conference therefore seeks to provide an opportunity to explore the realities that inform current arts praxis in the Region that connects to our history, culture and current society.

The Conference thus seeks to provide an opportunity for local, regional and global voices of arts educators, policy makers, researchers and Arts practitioners to raise awareness, share experiences and examine the terrain of historical erasure, social and institutional responsibility and the multiple ways in which people compose, or fail to do so, outward and interior realities.

The Conference thus aims to a) listen to what/where young people, within and beyond institutional walls, may be doing/going; b) provide a space where these ideas/issues can be encouraged; c) reflect on the implications of such a dialogue on/for current teaching/learning methodologies. The conference co-chairs invite individuals and groups to submit proposals on the conference theme that explore and expound upon the sub-titles: Dis-Engagement – Engagement - Re-Engagement on the following sub-themes:
